ITINERARY GUIDE

- Total trail length is 10.3 miles. Trail difficulty is rated as moderate. Multiple individual trails connect to form the River Ridge Loop Trail so you need to be aware of trail markings. Adjacent to the parking lot you will find the River Ridge Backpack kiosk with a large topography map located on the back side.
- The trail head is located in the corner of the Lorna J. Konsis Visitor Center parking lot. The trail follows a clockwise direction and markings include red and white blazes on the trees, red arrows on wooden blocks, or red and white plastic trail indicators. If two blazes are found on a single tree the upper blaze indicates a sharp directional change in that direction. Markers may not be visible if walking in reverse.
- The trail begins on the Old Barn Trail. This trail skirts the edge of Willow Creek Pond and connects to the Deer Meadow Trail. From here, follow the Deer Meadow trail until it connects with the Sycamore hollow Campus Road. There will be a large culvert on your right where the trail merges with the road. Follow the road north for a short distance until you see the Willow Creek Trailhead. Continue on Willow Creek past Howard's Hollow Seep Nature Preserve and turn right at the R.R.T./Primitive Loop sign. This trail section will require crossing Willow Creek and ascending your first hill. The trail then intersects Group Camp Road. Take a left on the gravel road and follow through Group Camp. Six sites are available at Group Camp. The trail continues between sites 3 and 4.
- The second campground, East Camp, is located at the extreme east end of the trail, near the Indiana State Line. There are five sites located here. After hiking through East Camp turn west (right) on the trail; this rugged section winds through the Duffin State Nature Preserve, intersects the Big Woods Trail and leads to the entrance drive. After crossing the road, the trail follows the southern boundary of the park past the Doris L. Westfall Prairie State Nature Preserve, and back to the parking area.
